srcset attribute

Brion Vibber wrote:

The current version of the patch uses the ‘srcset’ attribute as defined in the current HTML 5 working group version, only using the density options and not the width/height options. Since browsers don’t yet support this, I also include some JavaScript to check the display density and load the appropriate image from the srcset.

Responsive images for high-DPI displays in MediaWiki

Related

- HTML5