Other notes

Nelson Ko once wrote:

I don't have time right now to do something detailed. But to get the ball rolling, these are the features that are needed:

- 1) Users must be able to be designated as individual blog owners.
- 2) Blog owners must be able to admin blogs that they own but they are not necessarily global blog admins.
- 3) Other users (i.e. tiki groups I suppose) must be able to be set by the blog admin (whether global or individual blog) to have different permission levels at the individual blog level (i.e they can be author in one blog, but moderator in another blog).
- 4) Blog commenting should be a separate permission from wiki commenting etc... all other commenting, and should be able to be set at the blog level as well.
- 5) Blog moderating is necessary. Something like the article moderation system but for blogs. This must respect individual blog ACL, see no. 3 above.

6) All of the above must be enforced using something other than the Tiki category system, because the category system is still needed to categorize blogs in the normal way.

7) Free tagging must be available for blogs. This includes tagcloud. This is to be separate (i.e. in addition to) Tiki categories. It will be nice to enable personal tags (i.e. creation of tag cloud that compose of only one's personal interests) as well.

8) Spam protection, not just Captcha but something backend based on IP, repeated posts/whatever algorithm should be available to handle both trackback and comment spam. See <http://akismet.com/>

9) Blogs should support XHTML, microformats, and allow structured blogging. See <http://structuredblogging.org/>

10) Something like reblog will be nice. See <http://www.reblog.org/>

Ricks99 added:

Thanks for asking! Many of mine are the same as what you've already got:

- Better CAPTCHA support for anonymous postings/comments. Also need a better way to manage Trackback Ping SPAM.
- Automatic submission/ping support for major sites (Technorati, Feedster, etc.).
- Structured blogging support
- Assign polls to Blog entries (for rankings, like in wiki pages). Or some other rating system. Something similar to Digg.
- I like the permissions suggestion. I see three blog-level permission settings: Admin (Tiki admin/controls everything), Owner (Admin a specific blog), Contributor (Can post to a blog).

My biggest concern, though, is that the blog interface (both contributor and reader) is u-g-l-y. I know that everyone has their own opinion when it comes to "what looks good" and Tiki has unlimited theme flexibility, but IMHO, the default blog interface (http://tiki.org/tiki-view_blog.php?blogId=26) looks bad and is confusing to use.

I'll be the first to admit that my initial redesign attempt (http://www.keycontent.org/tiki-view_blog.php?blogId=1) isn't great either. Better themes (http://themes.tiki.org/tiki-view_blog.php?blogId=1) help, but it is still....I don't know.... "messy" looking. Does that make sense?

Adding an image in the blog should use the new "pick from file gallery feature" and the old way should be discontinued
