Description

After a new calendar is created, the create calendar form is still populated, and subsequent changes will edit the already created calendar instead of creating a new one. This behavior is not apparent to the user until the edit has taken place.

Solution

Two possibilities.

1) Clear the form after a successful save. User would have to click on the edit icon in the Calendar's list to re-populate for changes.

2) Add a button at the top of the page called "create new calendar" that clears the form.
