Description
> The Inter-User Messages system is quite nice.

Not sure if this should be done with the webmail feature, or maybe as an option of Inter-User Messages

See how MediaWiki does it for a good example: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Special:EmailUser/Marclaporte

There is already the "Send me an email for messages with priority equal or greater than:" feature. Maybe this just needs to be clearer: "Forward to my email address for messages with priority equal or greater than", and another option to "do not keep forwarded messages in internal mailbox"

And maybe another feature to specify the mailbox to forward to (instead of default email address).

Whether or not the message should be direct should not be the sender's choice but be the recipient's choice...
