Description

I would like to take work from my users (so basically myself) and categorize automagically.

I am thinking of some kind of

Type: Category

Options: parentId, 1

where 1 would mean to automatically check all check-boxes.

Then I'd make the field invisible and mandatory(is that needed any more) and voila - no one realized you got some more metadata.. ;)

If I understand correctly the idea is to be able to select all child of a parent category instead of clicking on each child. Is that still relevant ? What would be a use case for that ?

(Hiding categories is possible using templates or pretty trackers)
