Description

let "Dynamic items list" feed on a dynamic drop down (items link) to have several dynamic lists.

See this scenario with a form including Region > City > Suburb:

You chose Region

Cities get populated according to region. You choose region.

Suburbs get populated according to city.

According to the documentation for dynamic items list, cities are inserted in another tracker, as a text field linked to a hardcoded dropdown with REgion names.

In order to have suburbs populated dynamically from that tracker, sylvieg said that there is some code missing to allow dynamic items list feed on an item list, and not just a static drop down.
