Description
        Also, there is a DB error on a fresh install of 10.2 I can't test in show.tiki.org to see if it's fixed in 10.4 ~~because 10.4 is not available on show.tiki.org~~ 10.4 is now available

In latest 11.x: "Version 0.0 is still supported. However, a major upgrade to 9.0 is available."

On another site:

Version 11.0svn is no longer supported. A minor upgrade to 11.0 is required.

Version 11.0 is still supported. However, a major upgrade to 9.0 is available.

11 is at 11.0

and we have Trunk

do you have any idea if we could test this somehow to see if its reproducing on a current version

Marc Laporte 15 Aug 13 14:13 GMT-0000

Tiki instances checks live data on tiki.org to see if they must warn for an upgrade.

Here is an example of updating: http://sourceforge.net/p/tikiwiki/code/46680

If you change those files, there will be reports in all Tikis, so that's not an option.

So you could modify Tiki code to look elsewhere and test that.

But I think the simplest is to just use a fresh install of 10.2 to see the problem. Then, fix in 10.x and propagate the fix to 11.x and trunk

LP revamped that feature in 10.x to deal with LTS vs regular branch, so it could be good to ask him to check the commit.

Thanks!

in r47381 (but not backported afaicr)

Nelson Ko 31 Oct 13 14:50 GMT-0000

Pretty sure it works for 11 and 12. For tiki 9 will lower priority as fix is not a simple backport. Mani, can do this one later.

As long as it works for 12, it's all good. Thanks!
