Description

site lang doesn't change to lang B through i18n admin panel if that admin has selected language A as user preference

Multilinguality doesn't seem to change this behavior.

And even if the setting "Users can change site language" is off, the interface doesn't change to lang B, if that admin has lang A in his user preferences screen.

I would say that this was working nicely in 9.x.... (at least, I never saw that problem and I usually do this type of thing in production sites to test lang changes in the interface, etc ...)

Reproduced in the show.t.o instance

u: admin

p: 12345

Site interface set to English. Language user preference for user admin set to a non-English language (Spanish when I did set it up). Disabled multilingual. Admin can change site lang to another lang or back to English: site showing in Spanish for this admin user.

(Logging out show the site in the right site language: there is no issue at this level)

This works but very strange behavior.

I went to your SHOW instance, and switched to French in the i18n admin panel. Nothing happened (stayed in Spanish as you described)

Then I switched to English and the entire site became French.

Finally I switched to German and the entire site became English.

Looks like the changes are one step behind. Very strange.

Hi Pascal:

Unluckily you were testing the show instance at the same time I was making changes to it to reproduce the behavior.

Try again. Interface for admin is in Spanish right now, even if the site lang is in English, and multilingual is off, etc.
