Description

I believe it would be great to have version numbers added to files and images gallery.
That way someone could have a reference to an archived file that gets sequential numbering, the way wiki pages do.

In my mind it would work exactly the same as on the wiki pages.
Every time a new file version is uploaded, it's version number would increment and that number would be visible as a column in list gallery and file archives. Maybe even rename "archives" to "file history" to make it identical to wiki and show it's working in a similar way.

Workaround

No current workaround.
