Description

When I'm editing a wiki page where there is a plugin, the last existing last double quotes (") of a plugin is changed to right double quotation mark (R21) and it is breaking the plugin when using Safari on Mac. (may be others are affected).

<https://dev.tiki.org/tiki-pagehistory.php?page=Tiki14Upgrade&oldver=1>

To reproduce, open the page on Safari, edit, add a return at the end of the text. The quote should be changed.

It may be something specific coming from Safari as I tested this on:

Tiki14 svn

Tiki14Beta

Tiki13.2

Workaround

Not a Tiki bug, Mac OS "feature"

Sounds like a Safari bug to me.

Not a bug, an optional feature - right click on the text area and go to Substitutions -> Smart Quotes and uncheck it (also turn off smart everything else, dashes and links, they're not so smart!)
