Description
>   Several of the key links on navigation don't have alt text and thus screen readers for the blind aren't able to explain what they are. Some have tooltips that appear when selected, but the experience for a blind user is much better if you put in the alt text. The biggest examples are the link that pops up wizards/control panels/etc, the link that pops up edit page/monitor/etc, and the other link near logout that I can't quite figure out what it's for.
