Description
While working on a profile with exported preferences from tiki-admin.php?page=profiles&cookietab=2 I have realized when trying to apply that YAML code as a local profile using the following command:
php console.php profile:apply my-preferences profiles

the result is fatal error:

PHP Fatal error: Unsupported operand types in /var/www/clients/client1/web16/subdirs/.../lib/core/Horde/Yaml/Loader.php on line 363

The problem is my profile YAML file (which I saved as my-preferences.yml in a profiles/ dir) contains one line preferences like this:

```yaml
preferences:
  main_shadow_end: {if $page eq "HomePage"}{/if} main_shadow_start: {if $page eq "HomePage"}{/if}
...```

When I change it to the multiline syntax (notice the "|") character and new indented line):

```yaml
preferences:
  main_shadow_end: |
    {if $page eq "HomePage"}{/if}
  main_shadow_start: |
    {if $page eq "HomePage"}{/if}

then it works with no fatal error anymore!

What can we do to fix this? Fix the YAML exporter somehow to detect if there are any operands like > or < and if yes export the preference value as multiline even when it is just one line of text?

Anything else?
