Description
Actually to have the plugin listExecute action initiate by a cron job you have to use curl, send user (admin) credentials and use http(s) authentification which is not very safe.

curl -u admin:adminpassword "http://yourtiki.com/YourActionPage" --form "list_action=ActionName" --form "objects~0=ALL"

It would be nice to to have a console task being able to execute listexecute actions on a particular page avoiding unsafe communications.

Solution
Added a console command for this task. Syntax:

php console.php list:execute "Page Name" "Action Name"
I think documentation needs to be updated as well but since this is not yet released to 16.x, I didn't do the doc update.

Thank you Bernard and Victor. I dropped some lines in some documentation pages about this improvement in a "quick & dirty" (better than nothing, before I forget):

- https://doc.tiki.org/PluginListExecute
- https://doc.tiki.org/Console
