Description

When applying profile some profiles have possibility to input custom user value(s), for example:

```
name: $profilerequest:User Tracker Name$User Tracker$

It displays a text input field before applying profile with label User Tracker Name and prefilled value "User Tracker".

If user tries to change that e.g. to "My User Tracker" instead, after applying the profile the user value gets ignored and uses the pre-defined one "User Tracker" anyway.

This used to work in the past Tiki versions I am pretty sure.

To replicate try searching for User Tracker profile on the `tiki-admin.php?page=profiles` and before applying the profile change some value in the fields.

Ah... It seems to work only when the Profile gets applied first time. When re-applied or tracker is deleted it still says the profile was already applied and it cannot be changed later then unless fresh database install is done. So maybe it is not a regression at all but a limitation?
