Description
When I preview a blog post at themes.tiki.org, which is now at version 17.0, instead of the blog post title displaying, the text "No object information provided." displays.

This isn't a big problem as a practical matter since I don't really need to see a preview of the post title, but it would give a blog author the impression that something is broken in the preview function.

Solution
Fixed by pom2ter commit r63591, etc, Thanks.

I noticed the commits r63567 and r63568, but I'm still seeing the problem in my localhost after SVN updating and clearing caches, so I made a show instance (admin/12345 - files at revision 63571 when created) and the problem still shows there ("No object information provided." displays in place of post title in preview). So it looks like the commit didn't actually fix the problem.

You're half right. The bug also affected existing posts and thats what i tested it on and fixed. You can see it on your instance if you preview your 'First Post'.

Seems the bug is still present on new posts only.

I will take another crack at it a little later and comment here when its done (but i will commit to trunk only this time)

Finally it was easier than i tought.
I will backport after confirmation its fixed on your end.

It's fixed on my end also. Thanks.

Benoit Roy 21 Aug 17 22:07 GMT-0000

backport done r63615
