Description

As discussed on the dev list, this is about the case when a wrench-icon popup/popover contains only one action, such as "Assign" or "Unassign". This can be seen on `/tiki-assignuser.php?assign_user=<username>` .

Action icons/links were put in popups anchored by a wrench to simplify the interface and make it consistent, IIRC (I'm not sure which Tiki version following the Bootstrap integration this happened in), but it seems like not-so-good user experience to require two clicks when just one would be enough (by replacing the wrench+popup with the single action icon).

Can there be some smart code to filter for single-item popup content and in that case display the content directly in the page instead of creating a popup to display it?
