Description

If I have a tracker here I store people from many cities. And every city has its page with a plugin trackerlist what filters just the people in that city. So the people can "see" each other.

But

You can play around in the adresslist of the browser to find out the data from people of the other city (what i shoudn't see.

Thats not nice!

Hello Hans,

can you reproduce on a show instance please?

I understand that you want to limit the visibility of users from one city to users from this very city.

Question in this context: is the data public, reselectively internally public to all registered users, or limited to the users by for example category permissions?

Regards,

Torsten

Hi Torsten,

I just updated from Version 12 to 17 and wow. All the solutions are there. You can secure the tracker but show the data in a wiki. Great!

All the mentioned problems are gone.

Thanks so much for our great work, guys!

God bless you!

Hans
