Description

After a recent CVS update, the From: address of newsletter e-mails changed from the configured SenderEmail address to (apparently) the address of the logged on user sending the newsletter. Since a changing number of users can send newsletters, it is difficult for recipients to configure their e-mail filters to accept all of them. The change caused a number of newsletters to fail delivery.

Solution

Fixed since a few versions ago (at least, Tiki 15.x LTS), you can specify the "sent from" and "reply to" email addresses at newsletter sending time.

Hi!

What you considered a feature, I considered a bug. 😊

Remove:

`$sender_email = $userlib->get_user_email($user);`
from `tiki-send_newsletters.php` to restore fonctionality.

Maybe we could make it an admin setting.

The admin setting would be fine with me. As I indicated, with the current set up, I now have newsletters comming from a number of different and variable FROM addresses which increases the chances of running afoul of e-mail filters.
