Description

I am not sure if this is a bug or feature request.

When using:

□□□□□□□□

```
{ files galleryId="4:5:6:7:8:9:10:11:12:13:14:15" sort="created_desc" showaction="y" showtitle="n" showid="y" showicon="y" showname="y" showfilename="n" showsize="n" showdescription="y" showmodified="n" showauthor="n" showcreator="n" slideshow="n" showlasteditor="n" showthumb="y" showupload="n" max="10" recursive="y"} with showthumb="y" the file or image name when hovered over will show a popup preview of the image or the file.

But when using files fileId= instead of files galleryid= the popup preview does not work with showthumb="n"

I have cleared all my custom CSS styling in theme on my own instance, and the issue is still prevalent.

Here are two examples on my own wiki you can see.

<https://thepatriotwoodwiki.org/>

At the link above, please see image gallery listed by gallery id, displayed at lower portion of page. See thumbs displayed to the left, now hover cursor over image or file name, a beautiful preview popup appears. I like it, but it's redundant, why have a pop up appear when you already have a thumb displayed?

Please see:

See gallery listed by file id, I do not want thumbs to show in left column, because it takes up to much page for my taste, so I just have the images or files displayed with information only. So, in my opinion, this is when you would want the hover over image name to popup a preview of the file. But it does not. Please hover over file name.
