Description
If a banner is placed in a col (left_col) and is wider than the col it will spill over the main page data.

1. left_modules {overflow: hidden} would work it out ?

images should no longer spill over the main column but may look small if it has a large width since its width will be tied to the column width.
i also change the edit form a little so it feels less cramped.
the fix is for 19x. you can check if its to your liking and i will backport it to 18x.
