Modals in 20.x show tracker item edit fields narrower than in 18.x which were full width when tracker section format is set to tabs

Description

Modal popupforms in 20.x show tracker item edit fields narrower than in 18.x (input field to edit a tracker item were using full width), when you have the option "Section Format" set to Tabs instead of "Flat" or "Configured".

See screenshot below comparing same item in a site in 18.x (FiveAliveHS) and after it's been upgraded to 20.x (using a different theme style - Cerulean, but with the same theme style FileAlive, the same
The overall look and feel is way poorer, since there doesn't seem to be consistency in the layout of fields of the same tracker item. In 18.x, the look and feel was better.

Edit the item and you will see it.
Conveert the Section format from the properties of that tracker from "Tabs" to "Flat", or enable to use the former interface to add tracker items, and you will see he difference when editing tracker items.

I can't reproduce the problem - I tried with jQuery Chosen both on and off. The tracker item edit fields in my localhost branch 20 are full-width, as are the fields at https://tiki.org/tracker23 for example, so are consistent with the style in Tiki 18. To be sure I understand, are you saying that the fields in your site aren't full width; they are as shown in the left-side image in your screenshot?

Hi Gary, thanks for your time to review this. Today I discovered how to reproduce the issue, and updated the bug report:

“...when you have the option "Section Format" set to Tabs instead of "Flat" or "Configured"

I'll reproduce in a show2.t.o instance
