Description

user preferences are not stored in tiki_tracker_item_fields, so the query run for a user preference field 27, and value 'csabi' will not work

SELECT COUNT(*) FROM `tiki_tracker_item_fields` WHERE 1=1 AND `fieldId` = 27 AND `value` = 'csabi';

do we need a distinct_userpreference validator?

Then it would work across multiple user trackers, and we could solve the long standing ticket
