Yes, you're right - several regressions there i think, not looked at this for quite a while...

If you switch to View mode: WYSIWYG (wiki mode) you will see toolbars and options more like what you're getting in the editor, so that's a wrong (assuming you are in "wiki mode" and not "html mode")

However, code and various tools don't appear at all, and they used to.

Thanks for the report!

Thanks Jonny, my pleasure.

Well personally I don't like the wiki mode editor and so do not our users wither because it is "too nerdy" and cumbersome to use.

The WYSIWYG solves that problem which is way more user friendly. I do believe we use html mode too.

Kind regards
