Description

As of 21.x and 22.x the eFinder gallery url's have changed. This has created issues with existing menu items that were pointing to a file gallery. The url's used before would have a trailing /file1 for a gallery. Now using eFinder there is an extra trailing url attached that looks like this:

/file1#elf_f1_MQ

A show instance will be created, at the show instance you can turn eFinder on and off, and view the gallery url's change.

Hi John

Is this really a problem? /file1 will still work, eFinder adds the extra bit to keep track of where you are inside eFinder - the part of the url after the hash character, the URI fragment is added by the client using javascript, so you can go back to where you were if the url doesn't change, like when you change folders in eFinder.

It shouldn't prevent your existing menus from working (i thought).

Thanks Jonny, ya, it seems to matter, my menu items for galleries were pointed to file1 etc, they used to direct the user straight to that file folder, but now, it directs the user to the overall file structure of eFinder.

If you have a minute, please see my live site at

<https://thepatriotwoodwiki.org/HomePage>

At the left column menu items, for example click on "Education" then "File Galleries". You'll be taken to the overall eFinder file structure instead of the "Education" gallery. You'll note that the heading of the gallery page may say "Education", but you are not inside the "Education" file gallery.

If we turn off eFinder, it works, turn eFinder on, it does not work.

I have attached a screen shot of a few of my menu items as I have them configured. Thanks for any help Jonny.
