Description
    After some bad experience (ours and from other users), Rick (Rick99) and I suggest:

    RFE should be that the following username should not be changable or deletable:
    - admin

    And the following groupnames should not be changable or deletable:

    - registered
    - anonymous

    Additionally, there should be a usergroup administrator that has all permissions. This would allow Tiki-admins to easily create new Admin logins, with their own usernames.

    added: ensure password reminder works out of the box

    A couple of usability issues could be fixed here.

    a) remind/reset passwords is off by default - should be on?
    b) no email is set on admin by the installer

this would prevent most newbie lost admin password issues i think. - mlpvolt

Solution
    The problem related to admin user and registered / anonymous groups has been fixed in 1.10.
    Users must not change those groups names, but even in 1.10, the code have to be enhanced a bit more to handle the traduction of those group names in smarty templates.

    fixed in 1.9.8

It happened to me that a tiki admin renamed the Registered group to French.

Not good...

I've just found this dev thread and have been struggling with an admin password problem. Does this 1.9.8 change solve the problem that if a Tiki-admin does create a new Admin login, with their own username, then the new Admin could change the password of the Tiki-admin? Would appreciate a better understanding of exactly what has changed in 1.9.8
