

Help

Similar to links in the app to doc.tiki.org, plugin helper (added in Tiki3) and module helper (in Tiki7), we need various helpers. In upcoming versions, we will add more.

Update: After evaluating the different scripts below, we decided on Bootstrap Tour. The license was changed to MIT and the library was added to Tiki trunk, to be Tiki 15. There's a doc page at <https://doc.tiki.org/PluginTour> with preliminary information so far.

Help popups / On-page guidance / site tour

When in help mode, Tiki should have help popup

- For internal Tiki features
- For sites/apps made with Tiki, like CartoGraf
- <http://ninodezign.com/25-free-jquery-plugins-for-doing-guided-tours-through-a-website/>
- <https://github.com/search?o=desc&q=tour&s=stars&type=Repositories&utf8=%E2%9C%93>

- <https://www.designernews.co/stories/15273-a-list-of-product-tour-plugins-for-onboarding>
- The selected library should work well enough in mobile mode

Bootstro.js	https://clu3.github.io/bootstro.js/	MIT	Good if side modals aren't used (xs displays)	Needs custom selectors.	No
Trip.js	http://eragonj.github.io/Trip.js/	MIT	Good, depending on e/w modals	Any unique	No

Faqtoid	https://github.com/patrick-roberts/faqtoid	MIT	Yes	Any unique	No

Notes: *Selectors are the page elements that are the "tour stops". If they can be any element (id or unique class) then the tour can run on Tiki pages with no special markup, such as admin pages, etc. Factoid is a package of website help components.

Regarding mobile performance, the scripts that are responsive all show the tour step popups clearly if the popups are positioned above or below their target elements, but if they pop up to the left or right, then some horizontal scrolling may be needed to see/access them on small screens, depending on the location of the target element on the screen.
