Description

I would like a way to invite people to come to a Tiki site after I have added their login. (different of the use where people self-register)

Right now, I simulate a lost password message (which I customize).

Maybe this could become a new feature available to admins when

- 1- after a successful user creation at tiki-adminusers.php
- 2- when administering a user account
- 3- from : tiki-adminusers.php with the batch command to send to many new users.

The system would send an email with a one-click login and be sent to the user tracker tiki-view_tracker_item.php?view=+user

Person who triggers this email alert should be in BCC. (to have a trace). Even better would be to have this logged somewhere but this could be for phase 2.

We could have a new mail template in templates/mail/welcome_message.tpl or in a wiki page (better!)

What do you think?

How do you customize the Welcome email that is sent to new Registered users?

For ease of maintenance...

As per Tiki23 I don't see such functionalities for an admin or a Super User.

I wonder if it would be possible to use the plugin ListExecute to create personalised email upon certain search/filter criteria (never logged, date range for last login, etc).
