Description

Some ideas of nice links to have:

Thumbnail with link:

{THUMB(id=13,url="show_image.php?id=13")}{THUMB}

You can test some experimental stuff here (upload a pic and see the suggested wiki markup to copy in a test page.)

Nelson Ko and Marc Laporte were planning to work on tiki at TikiFestToronto but something else came up so it's still on todo list 😃

Solution
This is much better in version 3.0 Still more testing would be good.

There is now a filegal manager feature to activate here:

What could be enhenced in filegal manager is a way, as your screenshots shows, to display thumbnails of images. This is on my todolist.

I've just commited to branch 1.10 the images preview on filenames in filegals listing. This should already help users when choosing an image for a wiki page with or without wysiwyg.

Another step to close this issue...

It would be nice if we could use an image name instead of an ID. Both easier to remember and more robust (if IDs get lost there is nothin in the link to identify what image a link refers to).

The "Use File Galleries for images inclusion" option in Admin>Features is not documented.

Am working on adding a Thumbnail column, which will use configurable plugin to display the thumbnail in the file gallery list. Exact behavior will depend upon the plugin configuration and the file type. Have functional plugins for images, video and audio podcasts, which will be in 3.0 soon.
