Description

Sometimes, we want people to participate to one wiki page, to access their user tracker to update personal information or access a workspace

Right now, we need to

1. create a user
2. create a group

3. assign user to the group
4. give permissions to group (in general or for a specific item)
5. inform this person, typically by email, on how to access this page

Instead, I would want to

1. add an email
2. pick the permissions this person has
3. any limitations (works x times, or for x days/weeks)
4. an optional message

And the system should send a 1-click login email (an email with a link in it which is unique / very difficult to guess).

Whoever clicks that link

- Would be authenticated with the appropriate permissions and according to the limitations.

Solution

Share access to any URL has been added to Tell a Friend in Tiki5.

This doesn't let you edit & save though.
