Staging and Approval

Description

When using the "Wiki Page Staging and Approval" feature... I would like the "Category for approved pages" option to include a new selection: "Prompt for category"

This would allow users to select a category when they approve the page, allowing approvers to select a different category for pages, rather than selecting a single, overall, "approved" category.

Solution

1. Add new "Prompt for Cateogry" option
2. When approving a page, have Tiki prompt for the editor to select a category.

In the same (simple and elegant) way suggested by Rick to categorize the pages once approved, I see the need for being asked for a category when wanting to re-edit a page already Staged. Without multiple categories, Staging and Approval is restricted to not much but the most basic sites (in terms of permissions), which would be sad because the overall scheme is brilliant. When can we expect seeing it at work? I'm willing to do practical testing 😊
Thank you to the coders.

Eric
