Description

When you first define a Newsletter if you set the "Validate email addresses" parameter this, first of all, works fine and in the Subscription screen the "Don't send confirmation mail" is shown and a validation e-mail is sent when a new user is added.

BUT if you go back and Edit the Newsletter - first of all the "Validate email addresses" is NOT ticked when the existing Newsletter details are populated - but reticking it and reSaving the Newsletter does not set the parameter. Looking at the raw database shows that whilst the validateAddr field is set to "y" when the Newsletter is first set up - it is set to NULL once the Newsletter is edited and no matter how many times the Newsletter is edited and resaved the field stays at a NULL value - and obviously the validation process for new users is no longer available.

Editing the raw database with phpMyAdmin is the only way to reset the field to "y"

Solution

This bug is fixed on trunk (future 3.0).

The issue is with lib/newsletters/nllib.php line 19.
$frequency and $validateAddr are placed in the wrong spots.
Switch them and it will work fine fixed in 3.0 on svn. Will be ok for next release.

Thanks for this fix.
