Description

Currently there is no wikiplugin to place 1 or more blogposts on a wikipage (showing title and content of the blog).

The functionality should be similar to the wikiplugin_articles, so that the amount of posts and the blogId can be specified.

Using a wikiplugin instead of the module plugin or RSS gives the advantage that you can show entire blogposts and that you can include a permissions check, so that users that should not be able to see the post don't get it on the screen.

It would be great if you proceed working on this, would be a really nice feature, which I'd use instantly, when it works.
(Under v3.2 it only shows the header, but no blog post :/)

Apparently it did work for 2.x but no longer under 3.x
I'll have to rewrite the plugin after I find the documentation on what changed for the plugin architecture.
