Description

<http://mods.tikiwiki.org/details.php?type=lib&mod=phpfreechat>

the fact is that even if installing by hand, the phpfreechat plugin doesn't work for me, neither on tiki 2.x (with ajax enabled, etc., cleared browser and tiki caches, etc.: just says: "chat loading, please wait, and nothing happens), nor in tiki 3beta4 (it's even not listed in the list of plugin to enable/disable)

It's a pity that we can't provide a functional chat for tiki 2.x or tiki3.x sites... (minichat module for tiki3 was getting close to functional, but since it doesn't provide the date stamp nor a way to read the log from previous conversations to specific date, it's not being used... see the example of the last TikiFestUK: dimdim, skypechat, + irc chat)

it looks like the chat did not load because of a jQuery/Prototype conflict.

I was able to make it work by following these steps:

- manually installed wikiplugin_phpfreechat.php and tiki-phpfreechat_ajax.php
- installed the latest upstream version of phpfreechat
- put "if (Prototype) jQuery.noConflict();" in "Look & Feel > Miscellaneous > Custom javascript"

The chat also works by disabling Javascript completely (that way, jQuery is not loaded and the $ variable is left alone).
