Description

Watch Module must be turned on.

Category module must be tuned on.

Article Module must be turned on.

If I create a new Article and assign it to a category that is watched by me, I should get a notification that a new object has entered the category. By I don't get a notification.

I encountered this problem while I was working on the new report feature because I didn't get an entry in the report too.

The possible Bug is located at the `update_object_categories` function in `categlib.php` (Line 1491) in the `$categories` variable.

`$categories` contains all new Category-ID's of an object. So if I assign an article to a category, `$categories` should contain the ID of the category. No problem so far. The problem is, that each ID has a slash behind the last digit.

print_r($categories); die();
```

at the third line of the function gives

Array ( [0] => 2/ )
```

I think the slash is wrong.

Solution

Debug it backwards and look for the place where the slash comes from.
Then remove the slash.

I debugged it back somewhere to the tree-generator but I didn't understand the code. Sry.

A hack to solve the problem temporary is, to remove the slash from the ID in the update_object_categories function itself.

//Dirty hack to remove the Slash at the end of the ID (Why is there a slash?!) foreach($categories as $key=>$category) { if($category{strlen($category)-1}=="/")
$categories[$key]=substr($category, 0, -1); }
