Description

A previously reported bug with searching Freetags (#2235), where there was a WYSIWYCA problem has been fixed and this bug item is closed.

But there is still a small glitch when you search categorised content with the number of items 'count' when the listing of the items goes over several pages.

What happens is that the number of items that are 'found' is only decreased from the total by the number of items in the current page listing that cannot be viewed because of categorisation (ie WYSIWYCA).

For example if the listing per page is set to 25 items and there are 55 total items but 6 are excluded for WYSIWYCA reasons (4 excluded in the first 25, and 2 in the second 25) then the first listing page only shows 21 items and says there are 51 in total; the second page shows 23 items and says there are 53 in total and the 3rd page shows 5 items and says there are 55 in total.

So whilst WYSIWYCA integrity is correctly preserved, the number count varying every time you scroll through the pages is obviously very confusing.

Aug 15 - closed this item as its so old and may no longer be an issue
