Description

I wonder how many times over the last years I've had to select my user profile to be public in my preferences at http://tikiwiki.org/tiki-user_preferences.php

I always change User information: from private to "public".

But after some months (and tiki upgrades, maybe?), I find that that settings is at "private"

Thus, When I go to send a message to a user, I can't either send the message:

You have to be able to receive messages in order to send them. Goto your user preferences and enable 'Allow messages from other users'

Or I can't because that user has that setting as private (I realized that chibaguy now has that same setting, but I wonder whether he chose that or not, like me) same on other settings that have changed without my content:

Messages per page: 2 (I had 10, at least)

Allow messages from other users: no (I had yes)

Note author when reading his mail: no (I had yes)
