Description
Presently, it appears everyone who has the permission to write has the permission to translate.

But you may wish to have a website where some people are writers in their own language, and some are translators of things written by others.

On a later stage of development, you may want to allow me to translate into German and not into Farsi.

Solution
Add a i18n category in Groups Permissions Management.

It can contain only permission to translate at first, and will be refined later.
