Description

Usability issue, but not so much a bug as feature design:

If the tag cloud is large in tiki-browse_freetags.php, search results are not immediately apparent on the screen. The user has to scroll down past the cloud to see the results, which is not necessarily obvious to new and/or less savvy users.

Ideally, the beginning of the search results should be displayed near the top of the page, but with a portion of the tag cloud still visible for further search filtering. The tag cloud could automatically collapse, with a large obvious control for expanding it again, or it could be positioned side-by-side with the results. Those are the only two solutions coming to mind.

Workaround

- User training, or
- Template edits?
