This is still a problem in Tiki 15 beta. Logged in as admin, I switched to being logged in as a non-admin user, and then changed my "real name" to "System Administrator", then changed it to "Admin".

Why not? There can be many people named the same in the world. ;) But I guess it is good idea and we could/should change that to prevent confusion someone posing as an admin/Admin. Even Twitter and other sites do not let your name to be displayed as "admin".

It's not an outdated feature request, imho, so tagging as "Accepted" instead.
