Description
    Here are two screen shots.

    The screen shots are showing exactly what my search text box looks like: right in the middle, I see a separator.

    In French: ⚠

    In German: ⚠

    When I am browsing in French, the search engine textarea shows a separator pipe right in the middle.

    It has nothing to do with my screen size (Cntrl + or minus), I tried.

    Does any one else sees the same?

    It's cumbersome. Of course it has to do with the restricted amount of caracters that one person can use when writing a menu. In english I don't see it.

    The second screen shot shows the same prob in German language.

    This prob is not new. It's just me who took a long time to report it or others are seeing the same?

    Peharps you can tell me if I need to do something on my browser side

    In the Community environment/universe (whatever you call it) it's OK

It does the same with IE
Also, when I tried to upload the images, I was unable to choose a category. I'm using Firefox v.5

Solution
Fast solution: Shrink the menu wordings
If you can still reproduce in 12.x feel free to re-open the bug report.
