Description
Since tiki-9.1 opening links in new page stopped working http://doc.tiki.org/Menu#url-_attributes_target_rel__...

http://someurl" target="_blank

Turning on the following does not seem to work

- "Allow HTML in menu option names and URLs"
- "REALLY allow HTML (INSECURE)"

I turned this on before but with some upgrade it seems to have been turned of again. Although it is turned off in tiki-8.5 and tiki-9.0 it does work.

Please add a option to open links in new page in "Create menu option" or fix the above.

I recently upgraded from 8.3 to 9.0. Menu items with someurl" target="_blank that were created in 8.3 still open correctly in a new window, but I can't add new menu items. This is a big problem for my site. Is there any hope that it will be corrected soon?

I've found a workaround for this issue. Use a back-slash after the equals sign like this - someurl" target=\"_blank

This works in 9.1 but not in 9.0

It becomes possible to use wiki syntax in menus
http://tikiwiki.svn.sourceforge.net/viewvc/tikiwiki?view=revision&revision=43167
It looks like a simple escape problem. This may be obvious to everyone, but the backslash is used as an escape sequence in php. The quote mark should be literally printed and not seen as a special character.

Fixed for upcoming 9.2
