Description

See http://tiki.org/tiki-view_forum_thread.php?comments_parentId=48506&topics_offset=1 for original request/discussion...

I have a Category structure:

Top > Category XXXX (ID# 31) > Sub Category 11111 (ID #51)

Top > Category XXXX (ID #31) > Sub Category 22222 (ID #62)

etc.

There will continually be new categories added under "Category XXXX" (that is, new "Sub Category #####" items).

I want a wiki page that will list all the items in all the sub-categories under "Category XXXX".... but I want the list to be automatically updated so when I add a new sub category, I don't need to re-edit the wiki page. I want to see this:

Sub Category 11111

- item
- item
- item

Sub Category 22222

- item
- item
- item

etc.

I thought I could do this with the {CATEGORY} plugin:
{category id="31" split="y" sub="y" one="y" }

This lists all the items in all the sub-categories in one long list... but I want the items grouped by sub-category (which is what I thought the "split" parameter was supposed to do).

I also tried adding the "showlinks=y" parameter, but again I got only a single list...

Hey Rick,

I figured like you that the plugin would already do that but I guess it doesn't

Could you create a show instance and setup a demo of the data you'd like to use and then insert a plugin with how you think it should be configured.

That way when the developer creates the new functionality he'll have data created from the person who requested the feature.

thanks
