Related-to

- ● Find a way to block robots from indexing in PHP, and configurable from Tiki

Description

It asks for password, but then, give "Error saving image: HTTP/1.1 401 Authorization Required"

Solution

/tiki-ajax_services.php now doesn't need authentication. ScreenCasts work like this.

Which commit number?

Workaround

Is there potentially a better way to block crawlers than HTACCESS Password ?

Nelson: well there is something called a bottrap that is worth experimenting on , but amette is already very busy right now. However a quick fix to this problem might be to put an exception on show, similar to the exception we have on dev for Google. I've emailed amette about it.

Got the same error using another feature (PluginWebDocViewer). Google requires access and HTACCESS blocks it.

The solution might be to find a better way to prevent Crawling then HTACCESS password.

Bottrap can't solve this problem. Bottrap is a tool to make sure that IP addresses that don't respect robots.txt get blocked. So there's still a robots.txt just as now, it's just added checking.

An exception in htaccess seems to be the way to go.
