- ● PluginConvene: tell user chosen date and time once it is chosen

Description
I tried to add my name to the schedule created with plugin convene in Tiki11 and clicking at the "Add user" button (or Add date) did nothing when I was visiting the page with mobile interface. Same with the button to edit choices.

Same issue with Chrome or Firefox on Android.

To reproduce:
http://xavi-9794-4778.show.tikiwiki.org/tiki-index.php?page=Community+Members+HomePage

u: admin
p: 12345

Change to mobile (link in module in the right column)
Click at "Add user" button (or Add date)
Nothing happens

Workaround

Partly fixed in r48996. AddDate still doesn't work in mobile. Maybe something like datebox jquery mobile plugin (http://dev.jtsage.com/jQM-DateBox2/) needs to be added to the code base and used when a date needs to be selected under mobile mode?

Use Tiki15 LTS instead. Closing as outdated then, this request for Tiki 12 LTS.

Probably depends on jQueryUI, which is not available in mobile mode

if that's the reason, maybe the low-hanging fruit is to have that button converted into something not using jquery-ui, even if it's not so fancy (if that's the case).

I mean, I could (by mistake) remove a whole user choice with mobile (after clicking there like crazy! I clicked in the wrong button 😃)

Does it make sense to use energy for this right now with Bootstrap coming along? Won't Bootstrap be the future for Tiki's mobile strategy?

I'm just thinking out loud here, looking for your thoughts

thanks

Remember that tiki12 lts is non-bootstrap....
