So what is happening is that it found a comment that is "more like this": comment 2609.

There is right now not a way to handle comments with object_link (this is a feature request). To solve this for now, you can set in the module the setting Object Type filters (I have set it to wiki page and trackeritem for now).

Can you help create a feature request for handling comments (this might be a useful feature).

Or maybe the search module can directly link to the parent object if the type of the object is a comment as i think the info on the parent object is already in the search results (performance better than letting object_link do this.
