Description
    Blog post edit page (tiki-blog_post.php) has a "Mark entry as private" check box, to restrict viewing to the author. But it doesn't work; any user can read the post.

    Needs to be fixed or the option removed from tiki-blog_post.php in time for 1.10.0

Solution
    Tested and closed! Thanks luciash!

Can someone tell me the status of this tracker (private post not working)? When do you think this will be corrected? This is an important feature when using blogs in a teaching/classroom environment.

Marc Laporte 09 Jul 07 04:48 GMT-0000

I confirm. as of today, in BRANCH-1-9, it is still broken.

Nelson Ko 09 Jul 07 05:31 GMT-0000

Unfortunately, this is most likely will only be available in 1.10. Not ready yet. I have commented out the option in the template for 1.9.8 so new users won't keep trying to use it.

No one has committed to coding this feature yet...

I'm also very disappointed that no one has addressed this yet. It's making teaching blogs very difficult, since so many students accidentally post in each other's blogs. It also appears to be a minor problem-- just wish I had the skills to fix it myself. 😕

I also know that this is a still a problem. I will be eager to see this problem resolved as soon as possible.

Personally I don't need this functionality so I will just comment it out, but I thought I'd mention it.
