Description

In a few sites we usually get spam registrations, polluting the user registration tracker, by humans (they type properly the passcode).

Every now and then I connect to the site to remove the users registrations (this removes also their user tracker items), and I would like to collect those ip's at the same time to be sent to the banning feature.

This type of feature already works nicely for comments: you can enable comment moderation, review many comments at once, select many through their checkboxes, and click at "ban and delete" type of option at the bottom.
This collects the ip's of those comments, and sends them for you to the banning feature, allowing you to ban all those ip's with just a few clicks.

We need this also for the fake registrations from human-spammers getting in.

Solution
commited in trunk in r52150 & r52319,
and backported in r52328 (13.x) & r52329 (12.x)
