The module title background is a different color than the button backgrounds to be clear that it isn't a button. I needed to use a color lighter than the button backgrounds and darker than the text field backgrounds. Also the color needs to be light enough to have good contrast with the module title text color. The module title text color needs to be dark rather than light because in the FiveAlive theme it's displayed on a white background, so this limits the range for the title background color in FiveAlive-lite. I can tinker with the color but imagine it'll still be something fairly close to what it is now, for the reasons mentioned.

i also think it looks a bit strange now, it would be better to have the same colors maybe using the invert of buttons (what is color there is a background here, and vice versa)

could be applied to module titles at doc.tiki.org

What do you mean by "a smooth border"? Border-radius? I intentionally didn't radius the module title backgrounds in order to differentiate them from buttons. Also I don't know what you mean by "the invert of buttons". What page element do you refer to, to be changed? Module titles? The invert of buttons would be dark on white, but this is on a white background, so the effect would be no module title backgrounds visible at all. Is this your suggestion? (That is the module title treatment in the FiveAlive theme,) gezza 19 Jul 14 20:51 GMT-0000

by invert of buttons i mean that buttons have red background with white text, the module headers could be white background with red text.

Since the background of the site is white, a border could be added to the module titles so that they can be distinguished.

this is just a suggestion, basically just thinking about how to avoid having several different colors, imho white and red (#c31e3b) should be enough as the primary colors

I keep thinking, maybe some other idea pops in 😊

Using gezza's suggestion, I did a test of the module titles with a white background and a 1px border that's the same color as the theme's buttons. (Check the "Attachments" tab to see them.) One version has the border completely around the title, and the other version has just a top and bottom border. The second one is clearly recognized as a heading, the first could be mistaken for a button (fyi the buttons have a 6px radius and the heading has a 3px radius). What do you think / which do you prefer?

there is already a smooth border-bottom for the modules, so maybe the heading of the next module does not need a border-top based on your designs I uploaded another version where headings have only border-bottom

So from my point of view, the wish can be closed as solved.

Unless you want to keep open for further discussion?
