Good point, we don't seem to have any feature_maps pref, odd i never noticed that!

We have wikiplugin_map and trackerfield_location which use them so could make loading that js file condition on those (along with geo_locateWiki etc? messy...) or we could add a new option to the geo_openlayers_version which currently select between OL2 (working) and OL3 (not) to include an "off" position.

Or add a new pref geo_enabled (default to enabled to be consistant) and make all the other dependant on it - either way, not entirely trivial ;)

geo_enabled is my favorite

Should be defaulted to off for new installs. And on upgrade, it's trivial for users to activate if they are really using.
