Description

I'm running tiki12 on a LAMP server installed by jyhem. Currently testing a menu which should appear only in sub-pages (show level2 only).

Configuration of the menu module :

structureId=New menu type=horiz
css=n sectionLevel=1 toLevel=1
nobox=y decorations=n notitle=y nonums=y
```

Have a home page on which sub menu should not appear :

<https://wikispiral.org/new+menu>

Works.

Have a sub-page on which sub-menu should appear (top of the page) :

<https://wikispiral.org/tiki-index.php?page=What+is+SPIRAL>

This works fine on my linux station, but not on my android firefox browser...

So my question is simple :

- Is there any chance that fiddling with the configuration can solve this ?
- Is there possibly a quick fix in the PHP ? I suppose this is due to different cookie treatment approaches in Android ?

If not, then, I'll just put the full menu and develop in jquery to show only the subsections. Maybe it should be done this way anyway, as I don't like a lot the cookie approach.

EDIT: CLOSED because it seems to be related to some cache updating and it works now. Strange but as it works I won't dig in this question anymore than necessary 😊
